

Joe Tidd and John Bessant

http://www.innovation-portal.info/ John Wiley and Sons Ltd

Activity: Creating value through innovation

Think of an innovative idea for a new product or service. List the ways in which it might create 'value' for users — what aspects are likely to appeal and why might they pay for this? Refine your answer by considering who — which target market segments — might value the idea and why?

This exercise provides an important building block for the Business Model Canvas approach to planning innovation.